When John Decided to Write a Gospel (Part 1)

Special Collection

We will have the opportunity to give for the storm relief effort again this coming Sunday. If you would like to participate in this giving, the elders will be in the back of the auditorium as you exit the auditorium this Sunday, October 20th. This past Sunday, the last count I have is we collected $18,298.50. On behalf of every individual who will be helped, thanks to everyone for your generosity.

HELP

John's gospel had only been oral until this point (ca. AD 96). The former fisherman, now an older man with gray hair, was the last apostle of Jesus. He had seen the church grow by leaps and bounds. He'd testified of Jesus as Israel's Messiah with signs and wonders. With him was Polycarp, a protegee who'd be martyred when in his eighties (ca. AD 156). Jerusalem had been destroyed just over twenty-five years earlier. In the last few years, the Jews assembled in Jamnia (ca. AD 90) to establish a school of religious study of Jewish Law. According to tradition, one of the first appointed deacons, Prochorus (cf. Acts 6:5), was with Peter, who'd set him as a minister of Nicomedia. However, Peter was crucified just before Jerusalem fell (ca. AD 64), so Prochorus joined John and aided him. Now, John was about to send Prochorus to oversee the work at Antioch, but before he departed, Prochorus was to help John with one crucial work.

John had read Matthew, Mark, and Luke, according to the church historian Eusebius. He thought they were each well-written and accurate accounts of Jesus' ministry, though only Matthew was by a fellow apostle. However, the Synoptic accounts overlooked the earlier years of Christ's ministry. John believed the church should know about this period of Jesus' ministry since he witnessed it. John wasn't taking this task lightly because the Spirit had spoken to him about writing another gospel account. Nevertheless, as an aged man whose eyesight wasn't the best and whose hand wasn't steady, Prochorus would serve as his amanuensis—John would speak, and Prochorus would write. The Spirit had told John, "Write a new genesis," so John knew what he'd do. So, as Prochorus sat poised at the writing table, John first spoke, "In the beginning."

John's gospel retells the story of Genesis, but humanity is reconciled to Him instead of being separated from God. Rather than falling prey to sin and futility, freedom is given through the sacrifice of God on the cross. Yes, Jesus is God, and John identifies him as such in the prologue and throughout. Instead of being ruled by sin, the new Adam, Christ, conquers it so His new creation can exist and operate in the newness of life. The entire framework of this is accomplished in the guise of the temple. When we read Genesis 1–2, ancient Easterners would have read it as God creating a temple in which to dwell. We call it heaven and earth, but the story sounds much like the construction of an ancient temple. Images were placed in the temple, and when God rested, readers/hearers would have associated that with Him taking up residence after a conflict. The conflict was ordering creation from chaos.

No Powerpoint????

As this is being written on my 80th birthday, I was reflecting on what church was like when I was taken to Water Street Church of Christ shortly after my nativity in 1944.

The biggest different in the worship services then was that the modern essential of powerpoint was unheard of at that point and "GASP" we had to actually sing from the song books!! The church had adopted the 1937 edition of Jorgenson's Great Songs of the Church by 1940.

The other major difference was that there was no trained "regular" song leader during these years. Various men of the church, including Urban Starks & Baron Myers, often led and some college students may have helped occasionally. It was the custom in those days to employ an outside professional leader for the big meetings and one name that the church records mention in this regard was Jewell Cox.

The Family Retreat will take place October 18th – 20th and will be held at WKYC. This is a wonderful opportunity for our congregation to grow closer together as we will be provided with numerous opportunities to learn and experience the different families of the Glendale Church. Mickey Garrison will be providing our devotionals and will be leading us in our study of Gods plan for us. The cost to attend will be $50 per member in your family. If your child is under the age of 2 then they will not be charged. Notice this is a change from what was announced.

Fall Family Fun Night will be held here at the church building on October 26th. If the weather is nice, we will set up our trunk or treat outside and if it looks like it is going to rain then we will move festivities inside. There will be food and fun for all ages. I hope to see all of you there and encourage everyone to decorate their trunks in order to make the event that much more special for our little ones. There is a sign up list on the youth board for everyone to say if you will be doing a trunk as well as how many kids you will be bringing.

The Fall Retreat will take place at WKYC from November 8th – 10th. This event is for middle and high schoolers. Bob Palmer will be our speaker again this year and we are sure to learn more about each other and the Lord. Please be making plans to attend, it is truly a wonderful time.

Please take a look at the youth calendar online as most of the events taking place in 2025 have been added. You will need to access it on a computer and not your phone as for whatever reason the calendar on the website does not work correctly on cellular devices.

We will be taking our highschoolers on a mission trip this summer to Honduras. More information will be released soon but if your child has any interesting in attending, they need to be obtaining their passport asap.

“Rejoice, Give Thanks, Pray”

THANK YOU

We would like to thank everyone for their calls, cards, text, condolence and the prayers for Ronnie's sister, Shelba Barnett the last few months.

To John Dale for his comforting words and the ones who attended the service.

Thank you to Glendale for the beautiful picture and the delicious meal for the family after the service, it was very much appreciated and enjoyed.

We are Blessed to have a great and caring Church Family!
